I give and bequeath to the Boston Children's Aid Society, incorporated in 1865, the sum of.....dollars, to be applied to the use of said corporation.

Subscriptions and donations should be made payable to the order of the Boston Children's Aid Society, and sent to 43 Hawkins Street, Room 43, Boston, or to the Treasurer, I. Tucker Burr, Jr., 53 State Street, Boston.

Donations of clothing, toys and children's books are needed, and may be sent to the office, or will be called for if the address is given. Books, especially, for girls between the ages of 12 and 20, will be appreciated.

It is through bequests and contributions from our friends that we are able to lay a solid foundation for our great work with children and girls.

Foreword

THE new Children's Aid Association of Boston is now a reality, with the Boston Society for the Care of Girls, founded 1800, and the Boston Children's Aid Society, founded 1863, as its first two members.

While this booklet is being printed the Association Committee is working out plans which will bring us together in a building at twenty-four Mt. Vernon Street, in the heart of a real colony of social and civic organizations.

While these two old societies will preserve their corporate identity the next report will show that in our welfare work we shall have operated as one.

In the following pages are printed the annual reports of the two Societies.

Association Report

ALTHOUGH, for a long time, there has been a conviction on the part of some board members, and many social workers, that Boston has had too many societies doing the same kind of work, until this last year there was nothing to indicate that the several children's agencies performing similar tasks, and in some instances identical tasks, would ever come together. Then a year ago a combination of circumstances made it seem an opportune time for the secretaries of three of our societies to urge federation. The Children's Aid Society and the Society for the Care of Girls were the first two to enter the federation which by unanimous vote of delegates from the two societies is known as the Children's Aid Association. This consists of all members of both Boards of Managers, while the Association Committee, which will function much as an executive committee, is composed of six directors from each of the societies.

The Board of Directors and Secretary of the Church Home Society have been interested in the Association and when we get a suitable building and location it is hoped that that society will share quarters with us and co-operate in various ways that will mean social or financial efficiency. Three other groups interested in children have also asked to be included in our building. Other children's societies will be welcome to join with the Association if at any future time circumstances make it seem advisable for them to do so.

Until suitable offices can be secured the federated societies cannot function as one organization, and at present the activities of the two are carried on through the two old organizations, except in such respects as joint secretary, financial and publicity, and clothing department. The Association has already decided that there be one committee on admission, advice and assistance, one on placing-out and one on finance and publicity.

It is hoped that there will be certain economies as a result of the federation. Already we see a sign of a financial saving at some points, such as has just been effected by transferring a worker from one staff to the other to fill a vacancy; but the federation will mean chiefly more effective work through closer affiliation than has been possible while we were all independent each of the other. More complete medical service is one of the expected benefits.

When the plan to federate was under consideration, a post card census of the contributors to the two societies was taken, in which they were asked to indicate their views of federation, as well as their intention to continue support. The vote was overwhelmingly in favor of the combination and the number who were not ready to continue support as in the past, was small. About all who contributed to both societies expressed expectation to continue. This aid will be necessary for several years to come, for the anticipated financial saving attendant on combination will be relatively small, and not for several years will it be sufficient to balance the total deficit against which the two societies are annually contending.

Report of the Secretary of the Board of Managers

THIS has been an important year with radical changes in the plan and personnel of our society. In October we accepted with regret the resignation of our efficient and resourceful General Secretary, Miss Mabelle B. Blake, who felt that after continuous service of fourteen years the time had come to make a change. The resignation took effect May 1. She is now studying at the Graduate School of Education of Harvard University besides continuing as Instructor of the Children's Work at Simmons College School of Social Work. During this period of fourteen years the old building at 1008 Washington Street, occupied since 1844, had been sold and our office removed to its present location at 184 Boylston Street. Under Miss Blake's guidance the work has been modernized and greatly enlarged entailing increase of office force from two to seventeen, and adoption of methods which enable us to give unusual attention to the problems of the older girl, who was formerly left largely to her own resources.

Recently there has come the proposition for a federation of allied children's agencies with the result that today sees the amalgamation, without loss of individuality, of our organization with the Children's Aid Society under the charge of Alfred F. Whitman, who has consented to act as General Secretary for the Association. It is intended to install both agencies under one roof as soon as suitable quarters can be secured, and when this is accomplished time and expense should be saved. As an incidental result of the combination directors are mutually included on both Boards, thereby filling our list to our great advantage.

Fortunately there has been but little change in our office staff so the work goes on much as before. For the National Conference of Social Work at Providence in June four members were allowed full time and expenses, while part payment for expenses was given to others who could not attend regularly.

By the death of Miss Abby M. Storer we have lost a friend and member of long standing, who had served as Manager and later as First Directress during more than fifty years. Her continued interest after retirement has been shown by a legacy of $500.

Elizabeth F. Nichols.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL SECRETARY

WHILE the work of any year is noteworthy for the splendid service we give to our girls, this year has had a few unusual developments warranting particular mention. Among them are such facts as the termination of fourteen years of service by our former secretary, Miss Mabelle B. Blake, during which time the organization was rejuvenated and placed among the leading agencies in child welfare work; favorable increase in the number of contributors and decrease in the cost of operation; and the progressive step that has been taken in forming the nucleus of a children's federation.

How the society has been of service to a grand total of 660 girls, 208 of whom were in the Placing-Out Department, is told in statistical detail on page 13.

While the volume of our work can be measured in terms of certain units, the heart of the work of a social agency and particularly of a society that directs its activity toward helping adolescent girls is of such a spiritual nature that it cannot be measured in cold figures. It is easy to tell that forty girls were sent from the hot city for a few weeks in the woods, but difficult to measure physically, economically and socially the benefit in re-refreshed body and mind. It is simple and relatively unimportant to compile the number of children in foster families, but of greatest consequence to see that the girls in our care and those under our supervision grow up to be good, self-reliant women. I am convinced that this is being done by the fine foster mothers and the whole-hearted, whole-souled visitors, who together constitute the staff of the society.

During the summer forty girls were taken away from hot, noisy offices, stuffy tenement houses, burning pavements and screeching factories and given a few weeks rest and relaxation at a Recreation Camp. They returned with rosy cheeks and renewed minds and bodies, ready to meet the problems of the coming year.

Betty—working her way in one of the Boston Society for the Care of Girls foster homes. She is in the last year of Grammar School. She helps to pay for her board and room by assisting with the daily tasks about the home and in caring for the little baby—her foster brother.

Our girls in the Placing-out Department have been fortunate in remaining under the care of one visitor over a long period. I find that in a stretch of seven years one worker had only taken one girl from other visitors and that two other workers had had no more transfers in a six-year period. The girl's visitor is often her only or best friend and as the acquaintance lengthens the trust of a girl in her visitor strengthens and the latter is in a position to give good and permanent direction to her character.

Some of the foster mothers have even longer records than these visitors. One mother has had the same girl for twelve years and another eleven years, while three other girls have lived for over nine years in their first and only foster home. Twelve have been in their first foster home for periods ranging between one and three years. One of our young women on becoming twenty-one years of age decided that she would return to the first home in which we placed her when she was a little girl.

Our workers find it advantageous to have an occasional meeting of these mothers. Such gatherings furnish the opportunity to give them a broader and sometimes a more detailed view of what the work is and at the same time give us a chance to make them feel that they are a valuable and necessary part of the society.

MANY of our girls are in high school and are making good progress toward the happy day when they will graduate and step out into the world of pay checks and other big affairs. A few fortunate girls will continue their training for a rich and useful life. One of these girls, a Chinese young woman known to you, and to many of our contributors who have made her education possible, is now a sophomore in a New England Seminary and will before long be ready for the last stage of preparation for service as a medical missionary to her own people. A friend in a distant city has interested her club friends who have raised $345, the full expenses for the current year. Another young woman is just entering Boston University, while another has matriculated in one of the colleges in the Southland, from which we hope she will some day go out prepared to help her people to a better life. Two others intend to become trained nurses and just at present both have been sent to New York hospitals for certain field experience. It has been found that one girl has an unusual voice, which is being trained at the same time that she studies French and Spanish. It is her ambition to become some day an opera singer. We appreciate greatly the contributions that have made further education possible and wish we might be more successful in getting funds for higher education.

While we are delighted to have our girls go to college, no doubt for the most part our task in the educational field will be to keep in high school, girls who ought to remain there, and to help them and the school authorities in determining the kind of schooling or training best adapted to their ability. Psychology is daily coming into wider use in solving such questions. Just as necessary in helping to solve the big life problem is social work in our schools. I recommend that this society, without curtailing its valuable intensive case work for individual girls in its care, study to see whether or not it can supply a service not now rendered to a large number of school girls.

ONE of the most interesting and complicated cases on which we have worked this year is that of Virginia, a 15-year old girl who was constantly nagged by a stepmother with four stepchildren besides a brood of her own. On a certain Sunday when one of the mother's own children broke a dish, the stepmother vented her displeasure on Virginia, who ran away to escape her abuse. At Revere Beach she fell in with a soldier with whom she spent the rest of the day and who on the following day, at the request of the Army and Navy Club, brought her to the attention of our workers.

Besides working out what seemed to be a satisfactory plan for Virginia in a foster home, we did some effective work with a difficult, irresponsible father. We got the stepmother, an ignorant, careless woman, to take a greater interest in her husband's children, among them Mary, a girl older than Virginia, who had also run away from home because of the terrible atmosphere and who, when we found her, had been taken to a hospital, suffering from the after effects of attempted abortion. We believe that we have helped Mary to start fresh in her parent's home, as well as to make the home a better place for her and the other children. We have also prevented the younger girls from following in the steps of Mary and Virginia. In addition to the moral situation we have seen that some of the children who were on the verge of tuberculosis have been built up so that the danger of such contagion is much more remote. Very clearly our activity has been a stimulation to the local Board of Health which ought to have known of the wretched home conditions long before we called for their assistance.

To accomplish the above results and others which cannot be measured, such as the community advantage in having an infected spot like this cleared up, we have had the help of State departments, local authorities, such as police, Board of Health, principals, teachers, as well as the help of religious workers and many others in the private field.

ONE night a mother of three children, under eight years of age tired of her responsibility, deserted her family. In despair the father came to our society seeking a home for his children, begging us to do something to bring back the wife and mother. Through our efforts she was found in New York City where she was working as a waitress, but she refused to come home. Next we enlisted the assistance of our legal adviser to whose appeal she was also deaf, even though he finally suggested that she might have to be prosecuted for the neglect of her children. At the expense of the father we sent to New York one of our visitors who, in a heart-to-heart talk with the woman, found that for nine years she had been most unhappy. She said that in all this time she had had only one new suit and one coat, and had, during that period, been out only twice, an afternoon and evening, and that her husband was inconsiderate in all things, making her work like a slave. She did admit that he had provided proper food. Because the home was sold over their heads and because she questioned his loyalty to her, she finally ran away. After our worker's intercession she agreed to try homekeeping again if the right place could be found.

"Ming Wah," known to many of our contributors, is making an excellent record in scholarship and deportment at a New England Seminary. She wants to return to her own people in China as a medical missionary.

Our visitor helped find a suitable home in an attractive neighborhood, the father and mother were invited to the office and the children, who had been placed in our foster homes because there were no relatives or friends to take care of them, were also present at the reunion, which was the first time that they had been together for a number of months. The parents thanked our worker for what we had done for the children and for them, and urged her to make visits as a friend of the family. The woman has kept her promise that she would not leave her husband again, and the children are in possession of their heritage, the normal bringing up such as other children have.

Besides the case work activities of our own departments we mean to take a helpful interest in the community efforts which have the same objective that we have. During the past year our workers have been identified with and have helped carry on in the dance hall committee of the State Committee on Recreation under the Girls' Conference, State Committee on Motion Pictures, Conference on Illegitimacy, American Association of Social Workers, School for Social Work and the Boston Council of Social Agencies. In this latter group, Miss Blake, our former secretary, served as Chairman of the Children's Department for two years.

Within a few weeks Miss E. Marguerite Gane, one of our best workers, who has been doing our home-finding for six years, has been "called" to take up new work in the Buffalo Children's Aid and Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. While we regret to see an old associate leave, and while her going will make it harder for us, we must recognize the fact that the best interests of children's work through the country warrant an occasional draft of workers from the most favored center. Also we believe that the best in the worker is developed by an opportunity to work in different communities.

Our organization furnished an opportunity for field work for two students of the Boston School of Social Work and gave opportunity to a number of students in Wellesley to do volunteer work in order that they might get a favorable introduction to child welfare work.

AUDITOR'S CERTIFICATE

We Hereby Certify that we have examined the books and vouchers of the Boston Society for the Care of Girls, and that the appended balance sheet and statement of cash receipts and disbursements on account of income correctly set forth the financial condition of the Society at October 14, 1922, and its financial operations during the year ended at that date. We have examined the bonds, stocks, and mortgage as listed in Schedule I submitted herewith, representing the investment of the Society's Principal Fund, and have accounted for all income receivable therefrom during the year. Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) Charles F. Rittenhouse & Company,
Certified Public Accountants.

Report of Financial and Publicity Department

NEARLY 2500 contributors are now on the records of the Boston Society for the Care of Girls, at the close of the year 1921–1922, or in other words, the Society has now nearly 2500 friends who help in the work.

During the month of July the department carried on its annual "Become a Friend to Girls Week" campaign. All "Friends" who enrolled upon the books of the Society were asked to contribute only $1.00. 699 persons responded with a total of $1,686.50; of these 292 enrolled from the ranks of 1921, and 407 were new "Friends" for 1922. This campaign contributed towards broadcasting the name and work of the Society and towards securing a wide range of interested friends.

Contributions for the year totaled $17,732.54. Of this 978 were new contributors giving the sum of $10,292.71. 1,151 were renewals from the previous year, contributing a total of $7,439.83.

The Society is indebted to the Boston daily newspapers for 90 gratuitous new stories about the work of the organization.

New appeals are constantly necessary as nearly 24% of new contributors fail to renew each succeeding year for some reason such as deaths, removals to other cities, a change of interest or other unknown causes. This coming year the department will continue its efforts to widen the interest of the Society and to increase the contributors' list to meet the growing demands of the organization.

Fifty-Eighth Annual Report of the

Boston Children's Aid Society

For the Year Ending September 30, 1922

Organized 1863
Incorporated 1865

Objects of the Society

TO assist families in working out children's problems so that there will be no need for bringing up a child away from its own people.

TO provide homes for children, irrespective of age, color, or sect, who, because of misfortune, either temporary or permanent, or because of ill health, delinquency or other mal-adjustment, cannot grow in body and character in their own homes.

TO give assistance in varied forms to individuals as well as communities in behalf of a better program for children.

CERTIFICATE OF AUDIT

Boston, October 31, 1922.

I hereby certify that I have examined the books of the General Secretary of the Boston Children's Aid Society, for the year ended September 30, 1922, and I find that all remittances made by the Treasurer to the General Secretary have been accounted for; that vouchers are on file for all disbursements; that the footings of the cash book are correct and the cash balance September 30, 1922, has been verified; that all income received by the General Secretary was paid by him to the Treasurer; that all postings and footings on the general ledger are correct; and that the statements shown herewith are in accord with the books.

I also find that the ledger for the Children's "Savings Accounts" is correct, with an aggregate on September 30, 1922, of $1,747.40 on deposit in thirteen (13) accounts at the Suffolk Savings Bank and one account at the Danvers Savings Bank, as shown by the individual bankbooks representing these accounts.

Respectfully submitted,

OLIVER BACON,
Public Accountant

CERTIFICATE OF AUDIT

I hereby certify that I have examined the books of the Treasurer of the BOSTON CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY for the year ended September 30, 1922; that vouchers are on hand for all disbursements; that the footings of the cash book are correct; that the cash balance of September 30, 1922, has been verified by signed statements from the Banks. I have verified all ledger postings and footings, also the income from investments, and I have seen the securities called for by the Investment accounts.

To the best of my knowledge and belief, the statements here made and the Exhibits shown in this report represent the condition of the Society on September 30, 1922, as shown by the books.

Respectfully submitted,

OLIVER BACON,
Public Accountant

In Memory of Anna P. Jackson

The Board of Directors on May 15, 1922, passed the following:

RESOLVED that the Directors of the Boston Children's Aid Society place on record their deep and heartfelt appreciation of the long and invaluable service of their deceased friend and fellow member, Miss Anna P. Jackson, and their keen sense of loss which they share with her family, her friends, and the public.

Miss Jackson became a director of this Society in June, 1884, and her service thereafter was continuous and active until within a few days of her death. She became a member of our Placing-Out Committee when it was created in December, 1891, and a member of our Central Committee in December, 1892. Her service and attention to the business and interests of this Society was unsurpassed in regularity, devotion and loyalty. To such a degree did she give of her time and wisdom in aiding with the actual daily routine of office work, that in effect as a staff worker, she made a noteworthy contribution far beyond the usual service of a director. While her knowledge of and attention to the details of our work was infinite, her understanding and appreciation of the broad principles and best standards of social work was sound and wise. Whatever our Society may have accomplished in demonstrating and maintaining a high standard of placing-out work for children is due more to Miss Jackson than to any other member of our Board.

Her loss is felt by every one connected with our work; children in care, staff and directors. While her place will be impossible to fill, the memory and example of her life-long devotion and love will ever be an inspiration to all.

REPORT OF GENERAL SECRETARY

Analysis of Our Work

IN making a report of our stewardship to all who are interested in better child life, including those whose contributions have made our work possible, we are not able to report that we have been 100 per cent successful in all of the problems we have tackled this year, but at the same time, through our analysis and our intimate contact with the various problems, we do not hesitate to say that the lives of almost all of the 1547 children which have been touched by our case-workers have been greatly enriched.

Various organizations are learning that the wealth of material in case histories must not be neglected and that the public should be given the facts concerning the causes which make our work necessary as well as the stories of accomplishment. Such material is best studied when there is a large number of units, and when the perspective is long. On September 1, under the direction of Miss Sarah Rogers, who is giving her time, we began a minute analysis of the causes and accomplishment in the problems of 300 children who passed from the care of the society in a two-year period. To help in this we are using a set of forms worked out by the Church Home Society which had previously undertaken a similar study.

To facilitate the collection of such information in the future, we have worked out a one-page analysis form, known as an evaluation sheet, which we hope will indicate what work has been successful, what has failed, the cause of such failure if any, the adaptability of the society for the case, cost of different types of work, and whether any particular group or type should be cared for by other societies or State departments.

Limits on Work

While the work has been somewhat curtailed by the effort to reduce the annual deficit we have tried to see that no child failed to get necessary help. This was done by directing to another society, by using public departments, while often good case work resulted in a reasonable adjustment so that it was not necessary for anyone to place the child. May the day come then the nature of our problems is such that good case work on our part will make it possible for every child to remain without injury in his own home.

The Boston Children's Aid Society is known for its sympathetic, quick, intelligent service to unmarried mothers and their wee little ones.

Unmarried Mothers

Late one winter afternoon there appeared in our almost deserted office a young woman who expected us to relieve her at once of the sickly wee bit of a seven weeks old baby girl which she had toted in her arms from the train from New York. In the absence of investigators someone in the office arranged for her to stay with her infant over night in one of our emergency homes which the society provides for the Juvenile Court. On the following morning our worker found that the woman had been employed in her profession for a number of years, and that she had worked at it until within a few days of confinement, when fearful that her story would become known to her associates she went to New York. The premature baby had not gained an ounce since birth. The mother was at first unwilling to tell the true story of herself and relatives who might possibly help her, but after a few days' rest in our temporary home, and with the encouragement of our worker, who, without crowding her too much, led her to her decision, she gave the whole story and finally of her own accord telephoned to a married sister into whose family she was received with open arms. Our visitor who has since been welcomed in the home of the relatives has reported that the family has taken over full care of the mother and infant, and that the latter has made great gain in weight and general health.

It is just such quick, intelligent, sympathetic service as this that has given the society its reputation for high-grade work with unmarried mothers. We have tried to be equally friendly to 137 of these girls and women, seven of whom have been received for placement by us, while 130 have been helpfully guided by our investigation department as was the woman above.

Besides the seven young mothers with illegitimate infants taken for placement, twelve other such children were taken for board apart from their mothers.

Of the seven mothers, three were between the ages of fifteen and twenty-one, all belonged in Boston, and five were referred from other societies or public departments.

Medical Service

The Preventive Clinic at the Boston Dispensary has continued to render us complete medical service for every child. It has given not only the careful initial examination to all and medical treatment to sick children, but has provided reasonable follow-up examinations, has done the dental work, the oculist's, the X-ray diagnosis, miscellaneous tests and has given needed instruction in sex hygiene when advisable.

Since our last report, Dr. MacMillan, the examining physician at the clinic, has been succeeded by Dr. Zillmer, whose duty it also is to visit children in their homes.

For some time the organization of the clinic has been of such character that more children could be cared for without any increase in expense. It is hoped that this splendid preventive health work which has become a model and an inspiration to other cities may be extended to many more children in Boston, which can be done without any additional expense.

The society for its mental tests and examinations uses several resources of the community, but has no routine examination for every child. Children's workers are finding that the mental test is valuable, not only for the sake of determining feeble-mindedness, but in order that home placement, vocational work, and other adjustments in behalf of the normal child may be effected in the wisest way. We have asked the workers to secure mental tests in more cases than formerly and may find that the routine examination is a worth while part of each investigation.

Clothing

To keep our 416 children warm during the twelve months, we spent on the average $18.50 per child, the total bill being $7,715, considerably less than was estimated at the beginning of the year. This saving is explained by the fact that our family is somewhat smaller, by the fact that clothing is slightly cheaper, and because we employ an expert buyer who knows where and when to buy at the best advantage. This agent also serves other children's organizations and it is hoped that after we are located in a new building, we may be able to offer our facilities to other societies at an advantage to all.

Home Libraries

The story of the Home Library Department is so familiar that it is not necessary to elaborate the principles and details on which its work has been built. During the year our membership in these clubs has been 388. In 31 clubs our libraries have circulated 4060 books.

In these clubs our students from the nearby colleges and other volunteers give the boys and girls of congested neighborhoods weekly, wise suggestions for the most beneficial reading. They are taught many valuable things about the care of their bodies, about the plant and animal world, about current events, while they also learn, in the kitchen or dining room of the librarian or hostess, good manners and other obligations toward playmates and fellow citizens.

Can not the Boston Public Library or the State Library Commission develop, both in tenement districts as well as in the outlying rural sections, more of these social libraries?

Council of Social Agencies

The Boston Council of Social Agencies has become a real force in social work in Boston and is proving more and more useful to its member agencies. One of the concrete ways in which it is helping is in the advantageous purchase of supplies and the rendering of other forms of service. The financial saving to our own society has been considerable, one illustration being the purchase of a new automobile, which was done through the Purchasing Bureau at a saving of about $70 over what we would have had to pay elsewhere. Because it purchases in large quantities a very worth-while discount is secured on more expensive office furniture such as filing cabinets, typewriters, etc.

In 31 clubs our home libraries have circulated 4060 books. The library is often the kitchen table and the librarian one of the children who acts as hostess in her own home.

While the above economy alone justifies the existence of the Council it has a greater mission in bringing its members to work with good team play. While the elimination of duplication is important it is of greater consequence that the agencies and workers in a great city should learn to relate their work to the needs of the whole community. One of the recent public meetings of the Council brought to light a lack of service to children which in our own smaller sphere we would not have learned of.

An investigation undertaken by the Children's Department has resulted in successful legal action forbidding the use of such names as children's aid society, baby hygiene, child welfare, when used by a magazine marketed for commercial purposes. While occasionally such papers are offered for sale their circulation has been practically stopped. Apparent violation of this injunction together with all available facts should be reported to the Children's Department.

National Conference

The National Conference of Social Workers in Providence was a real stimulus to the society's case workers, all of whom had an opportunity to attend some of the sessions. One outstanding paper which has excited much discussion was that by Mr. J. P. Murphy who arraigned children's work in this country because as a whole we have not yet come up to the standards agreed upon at the White House Conference in 1909, and are not doing a bigger and more worth while work for a much larger number of children with the same amount of money that is now being spent. One of our staff members contributed a paper at one of the special meetings, while others helped in the many activities of the Conference.

Although our devoted Director, Miss Anna P. Jackson, has gone from our midst, her spirit is much alive, and is still giving encouragement and guidance to those who are left to carry on her work. On another page of the report you will find a paragraph expressing the affection and esteem of the Board for her.

Miss Jackson took great pleasure in seeing that each year all of the children in our care received a suitable Christmas present. Many of these were made with her own hands and others were made by her friends or were purchased with money that her friends gave her. She began early in the year and gave the work her personal attention until the last gift was wrapped and started on its way.

In order that we may continue the happy custom of presenting all of our children with Christmas gifts, to which service she gave so much time and strength, it has been decided to ask her friends to contribute to the fund to be known as the Anna P. Jackson Christmas Fund, the income of which will be a partial substitute for the personal work which she did in behalf of our children.

The happy thought for such a memorial came from Miss Josephine Prescott, one who was on the staff several years ago when Miss Jackson was in intimate touch with the children and the workers. She has given the first $50 toward the new fund. Mrs. Loring of our Board has undertaken the responsibility for getting contributions.

At the annual meeting the President of the society voiced the thought of the Board of Directors when he expressed his appreciation for the successful way in which Mrs. Halladay, assistant secretary, and the staff carried on the work for several months following the resignation of Mr. Clarence V. Williams in December, 1921, when he went to Chicago to become Superintendent of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

Here, on or after April 1, 1923, will be housed the offices of the new Children's Aid Association of Boston, of which the Boston Society for the Care of Girls, and the Boston Children's Aid Society are the first two members.

"We believe that there is nothing facing the American people at this time more important than is this question of whether or not we as a nation will recognize the rights of childhood. The children of today will be the men and women of tomorrow, and we who know that they will soon be reaching up for the reins of power that we now hold should be willing to see to it that everything possible is done to make their hands capable of holding that which we cannot withhold from them, even if we would."

William Frederick Bigelow.
